

Beau Brodbeck is both an International Society of Arboriculture Certified Arborist and an Alabama Registered Forester. Beau holds Bachelors, Masters and PhD in forestry from Auburn University. His previous work experience ranges from consulting forestry to working as an urban forestry specialist and currently as a regional agent with the Alabama Cooperative Extension System. Over the past thirteen years Beau has worked in various facets of forest and urban forest management including forestry consulting, managing the Hurricane Ivan and Katrina urban forestry recovery program, providing research and education in urban forest management and most recently researching immigrant forest labor in Latin America. Beau currently serves as both the Tree Fund liaison and vice president to the ISA Southern Chapter.